

No one entity or subsidiaries of one entity should be allowed to own multiple media outlets in a single community. This hurts competition and undermines the first amendment.

In addition, current public broadcasting facilities are insufficient. Greater efforts must be made for public involvement in publicly owned media and the creation of additional public media outlets. "Public broadcasting" demands easier access for public participation and commentary in programming for greater diversity of opinion.